

- Do not give up. I never have and you shouldn't either. You're young, there's a lot to look forward to.
- This is not the end of the line. Once you get out of here, you can be a responsible member of the community and use your experience to keep other kids from getting into trouble.
- Be strong, and make sure you keep studying. The smarter you get, the farther you'll go. Take advantage of what you're learning here. You'll be able to put it to use when you get out.
- This is only a temporary setback. You have so much to look forward to and you can achieve all your dreams—just keep pushing yourself to do your very best.
