

In five years on the city council, Steve Minn has done a fantastic job serving the people of Minneapolis. Now we're going to put his skills to work for the entire state.

The Department of Public Service looks out for all Minnesota consumers, and that's right up Steve's alley—he's always fighting for the little guy, and he gets results.

Steve's one of those guys who gets out there in the community, goes to the meetings, listens to the people—he's a perfect fit for my administration.